

Why won't Cash App let me delete my account?

If Cash App won't let you delete your account, it usually means there are unresolved issues or incomplete steps preventing the process. Before you can permanently close your Cash App account, several conditions must be met to ensure your funds, transactions, and linked accounts are properly handled.

One of the most common reasons is that you still have a remaining balance in your account. Cash App doesn't allow account deletion if there's any money left, even a few cents. You'll need to transfer the remaining funds to your bank account or send them to another Cash App user. Once your balance shows $0.00, you can proceed.

Another possible reason is pending transactions or payments. If there are transfers still processing or deposits pending, Cash App will temporarily block account deletion until they're completed. It's best to wait until all transactions are finalized before trying again. This ensures no funds are lost or delayed in the process.

You should also check for linked bank accounts, debit cards, or credit cards. If your Cash App account is still connected to a financial source, it might prevent closure for security reasons. Unlink all your payment methods by going into your account settings and removing each linked card or bank.

In some cases, Cash App's system may restrict account deletion due to security verification issues. If the app suspects unusual activity or a potential security risk, it may temporarily freeze certain actions — including deletion. To resolve this, contact Cash App support and verify your identity.

It's also worth noting that deleting your Cash App account does not automatically delete your Cash App history. All past transactions remain on record for compliance and security purposes. Before deletion, you can download your transaction history for your records.

To delete your Cash App account successfully, open the app, go to your profile, select "Support" → "Something Else" → "Account Settings" → "Close My Cash App Account." Follow the prompts carefully, confirm your decision, and you'll receive an email confirming account closure.

If Cash App still 1 – 8 5 5 – 4 7 0 – 3 2 8 0 won't let you delete your account after following all these steps, the best option is to contact Cash App support directly through the app or the official website.
